

THE SKINNY - Week Ten (Outside Nine)

OBSERVATIONS FROM A BIG HOLE I COULDN'T CLIMB OUT OF: (Greg Waldie)

Wow...Katie Bye has a high handicap...yet she hits it so well. I got a little too focused on my stroke deficit and forgot to play golf.

Last week I included the golf humor diary joke and this week the joke was on me...as I 4-putted the first green. A four putt; who four putts? Later that night, I had to try very hard to not cause my wife think I was distant and absent...as I watched the Tiger ballgame.

QUOTE(S) OF THE WEEK:

Right out of the gate on #1, Jeff "Kreapa" skulls his pitch shot over the green and announces, "My wedge needs Viagra, 'cause I didn't get that one up at all!"

Apparently, Jeff had some tree trouble throughout the round as well, because at some point he exclaimed, "Why do I have to keep hitting my shots with wood up my ?+$#@?"

The first group out last Thursday had to contend with a gaggle of geese that crossed #1 green, just as they walked up. Many of you may have noticed the deposits they left in their wake. Mike "ShortDrive" Longstreet may have embellished the story a little when he stated, "Yea, I had to putt one of their eggs."

OBSERVATIONS FROM VARIOUS ROVING REPORTERS:

It was reported that Jerry Laban, while warming up on the practice green, chipped in 4 times. His partner made it clear that touch did not carry over to the golf course.

Mike Longstreet was apparently trying to soften up Sue "GB" Reed, by bringing her flowers (supposedly from his own garden). Apparently it worked, to a certain degree, because they got the better of the league leaders.

GOLF HUMOR:

A man was addressing the ball when an announcement came over the loud-speaker: "Will the gentleman on hole number one please not hit from the Ladies' tee box."

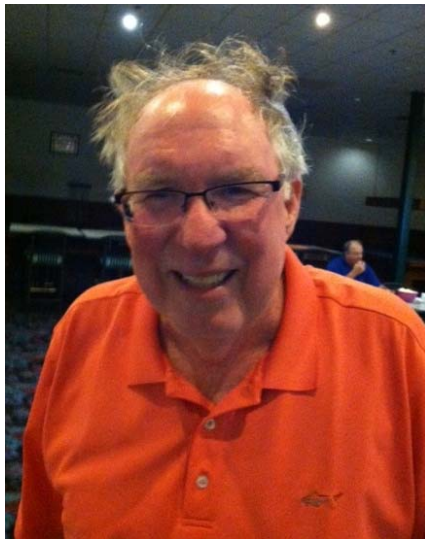

The man backs away, a little distracted, then approaches his ball again. As he does, the same announcement comes over the loud-speaker: "Will the gentleman on hole number one please not hit from the Ladies' tee box."

The man is getting irritated now, and after backing away from his shot - approaches his ball one more time. This time the announcement came: "We really need the gentleman on hole number one to move off of the Ladies' tee box!"

To which the man turns around and yells: "And I really need the announcer to shut up and let me play my second shot!"

FASHION CORNER:

Poor Dave Madill...the paparazzi are always trying to take his photo. It is no wonder he gets a little tired of it. But, there is no denying it...he is a walking fashion statement. (Dave, sorry I cut off more of your fingers)

Then on the right (above) is the whacky professor...Art Kelley. When he started talking about the principle of relativity...all of the beers on the table were gone in a hurry.
